“ When the battle was over, and God called her home to his warm, loving arms. He left us here to miss her beautiful smile, her laugh, her grace, and her charms. The lord scooped up his angel, and soared high to the heavens above. She now basks in eternal glory, and endless unconditional love. Although we will mourn her til we join her, her spirit will always linger. A song will remind us, a memory will touch us with a faint, heavenly finger. Just to let us know, she still walks with us in some way. It might snow in December, but the sunflowers always come back to us in May. If you're loyal to the soil, as she was...you'll forever dwell in a beautiful place....so hold love and forgiveness in your heart, and keep her memory in that sacred space. Love as she loved others, honor her and say her name often. The absence we feel will never diminish, but in time, the pain will soften. For all time, she will dance on purple clouds, and witness miracles on that heavenly mile....we cry now...but knowing she is at peace, she would want us all to rejoice and smile. Love you always, ms. Jackie. Lisa

“ Jackie was such a beautiful person, her laugh would fill the halls at work. She would always have wonderful stories to tell about her aunts, grandbabies and sons. She loved her family so much and it showed everyday. Work just isn't the same without her here. I will forever cherish our friendship. I love and miss you Jackie. Rest in Peace
